Notice

The Loney Court delivers notice:

i, an aggrieved woman, claim wrongdoers trespass by way of violating the Telephone Consumer Protection Act ("TCPA"), 47 U.S.C. § 227, et seq., by contacting Claimant through autodialed and/or pre-recorded calls on her cellular telephone regarding a Bank of America debt collection account, the calls continued after Claimant withdrew her permission for Bluestem Brands, Inc to call her, at issue all calls were non- emergency, debt collection calls, other than their own without prior express consent to receive such calls between February 1, 2014 and July 25, 2016 these contacts deprived claimant of her civil rights. Causing tort trespass, TCPA violations, harm and injury.

Wrongdoers had a campaign of harassment by telephone in an effort to collect on the missed payments. Wrongdoers through its subsidiaries and agents, employs thousand of persons at call centers throughout the country. These calling centers use automatic telephone dialing systems and computerized account information to track, record and maintain the millions of consumer debts serviced by the wrongdoers.

Wrongdoers acted willfully or knowingly or both in calling numbers using an autodialer without regard to the TCPA or whether the number was assigned to a cellular telephone

i, an aggrieved woman in all of my "good faith" efforts, wishes and demands to settle the matters of controversy on the private side, have been met by way of silence, i, now present and move my case in this venue, to have my suit tried before by a jury, for the judges (the jury) to render its verdict based upon the merits of my case.

i, require compensation for the initial and continued trespass upon my rights; $500 for the first call and $1,500 for each additional call, 30 plus calls were placed to me after cease and desist letters of notification was delivered, and compensation of $100 per day from first telephone call until date settled. Payable, due forthwith and is to be paid in full within 21 days after wrongdoers have been served this claim, to prevent further damages from accruing;

I, say here and will verify in open court that all herein be true.

Respectfully submitted this 25 day of Jul, 2016.

I am, without prejudice UCC 1-308
